“How much do you have to hate somebody to believe everlasting life is possible and not tell them that?”

The above statement is from an American atheist, Penn Jillete (of the Penn and Teller magician duo). It's not very often that Christians and atheists agree, but here is one point where we are completely aligned! Can you believe it?

If Christianity is true, and if the followers of Jesus believe that there is heaven and hell, eternal life and eternal death, then surely Christians will want to spread that message far and wide! And indeed we do. We are sending out this leaflet because we want to spread the message of love, not hate.

This message of love centres on Jesus Christ. So many people don't understand Christianity. Often they think that Christians are good people who do good things because they are following a good leader. But Jesus did not come into the world to tell people to do better. He came into the world to save sinners! That is good news because sinners is what we are.

True Christians are more than simply followers of Jesus - we are those who trust in him alone for salvation from our sin and the curse of God. Jesus is everything to us. Only Jesus can deal with our biggest problem (our sin and how it cuts us off from friendship with God) and only Jesus can provide us with our biggest need (forgiveness, hope, and eternal life).

The message of love centres on Jesus Christ - his life, death, and resurrection. We are eager to share this message with everyone in Airdrie and the surrounding area. We want everyone to have the opportunity to hear the best news that there is in the world.

That's why we are sending all these leaflets out and why we are hosting special services. As a church we would be showing a form of hatred if we kept this message to ourselves. So please come along to these special meetings - we would love to meet you, and you will be made most welcome.
